As 2400 students, 128 faculty, and 67 personnel of Warren individually experience each day, we face new, more challenging situations. We not only learn and teach facts and formulas, but also, more importantly, learn from and about people.

Hearing and seeing others experiences, we share their knowledge and joys, as well as sorrows, while learning to know and sometimes to understand them and ourselves better.

(Right) Tyler Glenn derives personal satisfaction from scrubbing his car. (Far Right) When bells ring, the halls immediately fill with students. The interim between classes was lengthened to six minutes to relieve congestion. It also allowed students more time with friends. (Below) Shadows deepen around teachers as the school day ends. The empty school echoes the questioning voices of students.

The desire to achieve is within each of us. In order to fulfill our desires, constant effort plus endurance is needed. Striving for the best possible future has created a determined crowd of Warrenites.

Understanding and accepting people for what they are is becoming common at Warren. Our new ideals and attitudes are often displayed in dress. The Fall of 1972 brought a new uni-sex look with shag hair cuts and platform shoes for both males and females. Styles in the layered look, high waisted baggie pants, and the renovated saddle shoe dominate our wardrobes. Bright flashy nails of every color imaginable is the main feature revived from the 40's as evidenced in the new semi-liberated female.

Often the work load seems backbreaking in and out of school with the strain of homework and jobs. Hobbies and friends ease the tensions while relationships with others are strengthened.

Living and caring are two words becoming synonomous to us. We exhibit our concern for others by helping them with handicaps or problems, whatever they may be. By extending love and care to people, we hope to better our world, which in turn, often helps us to become enlightened individuals.

Ours is one of the few generations to be educated in such a time of social and legislative reforms, to destroy age-old racial, sexual, and religious prejudices. With these changes come respect and influence which results in a more conscientious society attentive to needs.

Some discover a new awareness in life. An awareness that simple elements, such as nature and friendships, give life satisfaction and meaning. Living the natural way . . . . .

The natural way . . . . .

Student life

School's administration shapes

"The administration is tackling the possibilities of a career education center by investigating other centers and budgets," said Mr. Edward Cuddy, Assistant Superintendent of Secondary Schools. Other responsibilities of the administration include scheduling buses and handling the payroll.

For twelve months the administration remains busy shaping township policies and approving courses. According to Mr. Cuddy, the school board consists of five newly elected members whose chief role is to serve as the policy making body. Mr. Austin Walker, Superintendent of the Metropolitan School District of Warren Township, Mr. Cuddy, Mr. Lloyd Fleetwood, Assistant Superintendent of Elementary Schools, and the other assistant superintendents are all employed by the Board to carry out policies of the Board.

Counselors aid in scheduling; dean heads drug rehabilitation

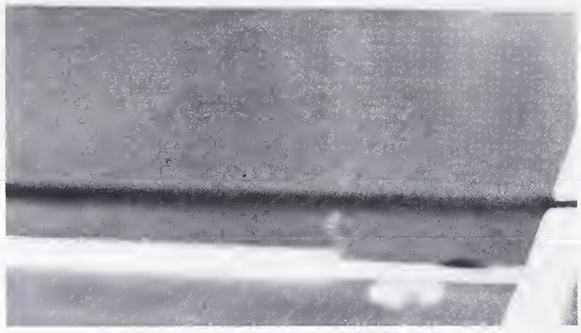
Between the administrative and guidance offices, students and faculty often found solutions to problems and needs.

The final authority was with the principal, Dr. John Reed. The two assistant principals aided with administrative duties including class scheduling, councils, lockers, student teachers, school activities, and truancy.

Deans and assistant deans directly served the students by counseling and disciplining. In addition the Dean of Boys headed the drug rehabilitation program while the Dean of Girls coordinated organizations dates and activities. Assistant Dean of Girls handled students for personal counseling, attendance, records, and admittances.

Functions of the guidance department included scheduling the SAT tests, Iowa tests, and Achievement tests. It also helped students choose classes and plan a high school curriculum.

Besides serving as secretaries to the principals, secretarial duties range from attendance recorder, announcement typist, receptionist, and registrar.



Supper, ping pong aid funds; chessman face other schools

Honor Society was a pleasant reward for many students maintaining an 88 per cent scholastic average. A faculty committee selected students who received high ratings from their teachers in character, leadership, and service. One per cent sophomores, one point five per cent juniors, and two point five per cent seniors to meet the five per cent quota from the school. Major activities included the Spaghetti Supper in March which was a traditional activity to raise money for a scholarship. The ping pong tournament was held to raise money, too. The tutoring service continued again this year helping many students who needed extra help in a certain subject.

Hi-C maintained their school wide morning devotions, before the daily announcements again this year. The club was for students interested in religious topics. Some activities included group singing, games, and serious discussions on religion. The main activity of the year was the annual Feed-A-Family Drive.

Chess Club remained to be a popular club with the boys. The club provided an opportunity to participate in chess competition. Some of the big activities of the year were an inter-school competition for Association Champion. Eleven schools played Round-Robin Schedule, and the State Chess Tournament was held in April.

Council representatives, organize breakfasts, proms

One of the ways students have to voice their opinions was through the student council. Mr. Scott Chandler, co-sponsor of student council, feels the council had more responsibility this year and there were more students involved in planning of activities. Many students worked on the mini courses and breakfast. This was the first year of ten-minute homerooms and early release students. In December the breakfast program began which enabled many students to get breakfast that might not have had time for it at home.

The senior and junior councils were involved with class activities. The senior council decided on senior keys, cards, and announcements. The prom site was chosen and the band along with the traditional gift to Warren. The junior councils main activity involved planning the location and the band for the juniors spring prom.

Business sponsors seminar

"This year students seemed a little more motivated in business classes," remarked Mrs. Bines. Mr. McKenzie commented, "It seems to me there is less rebellion among students this year. I feel that if we want to accomplish goals; we'll all have to work together."

Business Club was one way to promote business as a career. Some of the main projects accomplished this year by the club were the Business Seminar in December in which a guest speaker spoke on business as a career. In April the annual Awards Banquet honored top ranking students in business classes.

Warrenettes was a popular service organization for girls. Many girls joined, intending to work together to accomplish many different and interesting projects. But the planned projects were not accomplished due to lack of interest according to sponsor Mrs. Karen Wittorff.

girls participate in organized sports

"Physical Education helps keep students physically fit and provides fun at the same time," remarked one Warren student. This year two new teachers taught gym classes.

Both girls and boys gym classes did warm up exercises to start the period. Girls gym classes played volleyball, basketball, worked on gymnastics, and various other things. The boys gym classes played volleyball, worked on wrestling, and did many other activities too. Both classes combined for square dancing the week before Christmas.

Six weeks out of the semester is spent cooling off in swimming classes. Students are placed in different levels according to their swimming abilities: beginners, intermediate, advanced, and life saving. The students learn, the right way to swim and life save which enables them to be capable swimmers.

Industrial arts department develops new skills in pupils

Many students were attracted by the course offerings in the new early-bird program. Due to the abundance of interest, the department had been forced to expand and make more room and facilities available to the student.

Subjects available in the industrial arts department included machine shop 3, 4; woodworking 3, 4; and power and transportation 3, 4. This program enabled the industrial arts department to offer the student more and it worked out very well according to chairman, Mr. Eugene Crosier.

The teacher's main approach is "learning by doing." The manipulative experiences, the use of tools and machines, work with materials, and acquaintance with accepted terms, techniques and problems of industry are prime areas of emphasis.

Amendment stimulates elections,

The social sciences help to relate the world of the past, present, and future to the students as an individual. These classes expose us to the functions of our government and our role as a citizen.

This year, some students became involved in election campaigns as a result of the eighteen-year-old voting law. Many were the first to ever vote in a national election at that age. Students participated in mock elections and Congress meetings offered in social studies to give insight to the actual governmental procedures. Many students applied this knowledge in the November election. Relating current events to textbook materials livened up many of the classes. Although most students appear to be interested, apathy and laziness is still an apparent problem according to Mrs. Schlosser.

Exploratory teachers found teaching was two-way street

Exploratory teaching presents students with an opportunity for firsthand experience in the world of teaching. On Mondays students share their experiences in classrooms or listen to guest speakers explaining many aspects in the teaching field. Tuesday through Friday, Warren Exploratory teachers visit classrooms in Warren Township Elementary or Junior High Schools.

Program director, Mrs. Clarice Means, recommended that the students spend the first two six-weeks in each area and return to the grade level they enjoyed the most for the last six weeks of the semester. Mrs. Means feels that participation in both the elementary and secondary levels is important, as students often find that previous ideas about teaching in the two different areas had been incorrect.

Thirty-five students were enrolled in the first semester and less than thirty students were second semester. The classes do not have to be small, according to Mrs. Means, "I would fill my room with chairs or hold class in the auditorium to accommodate everyone who wants to be in the program; but unfortunately, so many of our students do not pass the requirement for regular attendance. Average or above grades and regular attendance are the two basic requirements to pass before a student can be a part of the exploratory teaching program. One student commented, "It's a learning situation in many ways for the exploratory teachers as well as their students."

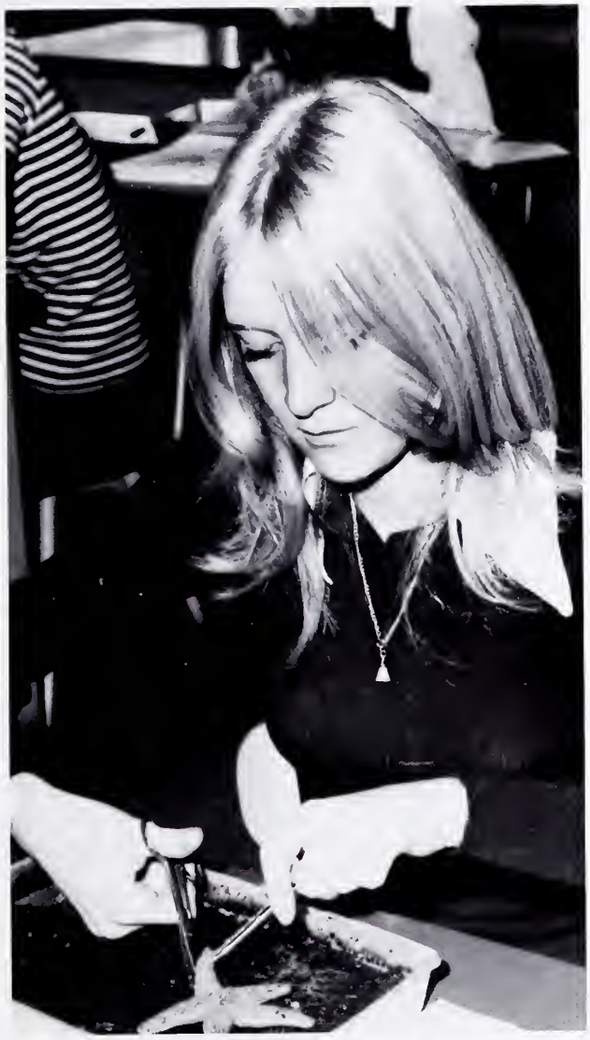
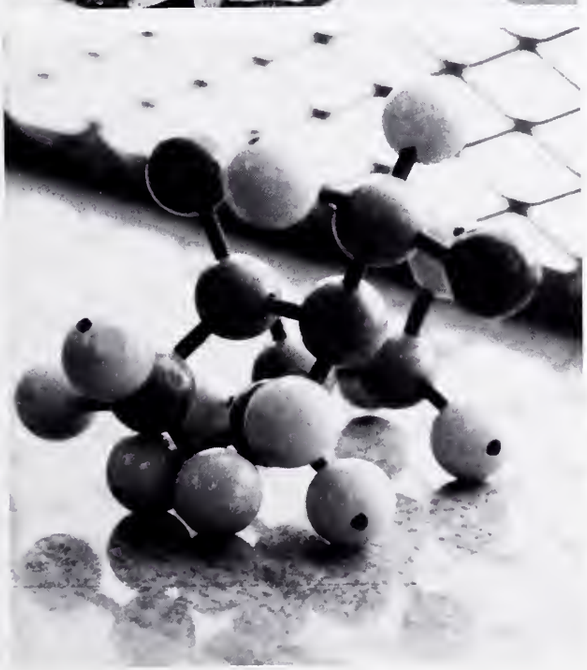
teachers apply experiments to life





This year the science department experimented with the contract grading system. With that approach, teachers hoped to give students more of a sense of independence through self-pacing. In this way students who like science or need it for their future can do more work, it also provides a slower rate for those who just need it to satisfy requirements.

Science classes attracted a wide background of students who had a varied field of future occupations. In general the grades were higher because contracting lets a student make decisions on his own and makes grades more like "real life".

Plans for future require change in Math Department

The everyday use of mathematics is the basis for its role at Warren. For some, it is the key to knowledge and success in the ever-growing scientific world, but also, an understanding of math will be needed in careers and professions. Teachers expose a portion of the wide ranging field of mathematics to fill needs.

An air of change for the future is expressed by Mr. Robert Ledger, Math Department chairman, "The whole area of calculating devices (computers, desk calculators, etc.) needs to be talked. I'd like to see the course related to Computer Math expanded upon. Someday, the pocket calculator may replace the slide rule."

In a conversation with Miss Susan Mayer, changes in the overall academic program were sighted. "Subjects should be taught on different levels, depending on how the student is going to use them later on. There is more pressure on the academically minded, college-bound students and thus, only the best will make it. The rest ought to have some kind of job training. Students don't see all the possibilities for various fields to go into."

"School, subjects taught, and teaching methods are identical to what they were 12 years ago, but they should have changed," Miss Mayer added.

Liberation leads males to kitchen

In this age of male and female liberation some students show interest in the revival of the home made arts. The boys food class doubled in size and the girls clothing classes increased from 18 to 30 students. Mrs. Richardson said the greater home economics enrollment might be because the girls may, for the first time, choose their sewing projects. The boys are perhaps more interested in the eating phase of their cooking class. Whatever the case may be emphasis this year has been on developing careers. Representatives from many different institutes spoke to the students on many career possibilities.

Trends in jewelry stimulate artistic abilities, gallery sales

Although several of Warren's departments dropped classes because of the lack of student interest, this does not appear to be true of the art department. In fact, so many students took art that the classes overflowed.

Mr. Fish contributed this rise in the number of students to the "return of hand-made products, jewelry, belts, handicrafts, etc. . . . "

The four art teachers try to get people to experience art for future jobs rather than try to make an artist out of everyone. More interest in subjects has been displayed by all students which Mr. Fish attributes to the lack of emphasis toward college.

Interest in student projects was evident by the number of sales in the gallery.

Singers express themselves; gain firm musical background

"I can see an improvement over three years ago when we were fighting over the dress code. Students have made progress in responsibility to each other and to authority mainly. I have less students questioning my authority than in years past," remarked Mr. Philip Dunn.

More kids are interested in the musical, than in years past, added Miss Barbara Robertson.

Mr. Dunn wishes that the entire school body could experience the fun which accompanies singing. "Singing is something you can continue after school. Too many kids drop out of instrumental music. We offer vocal training and participation in aesthetic appreciation."

Trebletones increase in size; best students chosen to sing

"Our big change is in Trebletones. This year I allowed 30 girls to sing, in years past, I allowed about 20. I did this in hopes of making Trebletones a group that sings good popular music and good concert music as well," commented Miss Barbara Robertson.

Students worked towards programs and concerts. In the spring everyone sang at the Spring Concert when the vocal groups combined to sing eight numbers required on the State Choral List (The State Choral Festival List was a number of songs that a committee selected for the music groups to sing). For another performance, the best girls were chosen from various music groups from all over the state to sing at the Teacher's Convention last fall.

Miss Robertson said her main goal was for Trebletones to place in the first division of the ensemble contest on March 24. Mr. Dunn commented, "We always strive for excellence in musical performance and improvement of vocal abilities.

Only upperclassmen eligible; chorus selected after tryouts

No sophomores were allowed in Madrigals, Chantelles, and Trebletones because only upper classmen were eligible. Another change was that the members of the chorus for the musical were selected after tryouts.

The annual candy sale was in February and during the Valentine Party February 13.

Mr. Philip Dunn remarked, "I'd like to invite the whole school for singing. Nobody has fun like a singer. There are very few dropouts once a kid joins a choir." "I think in general, students that I deal with have shown more respect towards themselves, the school and in the organization that they're in. There doesn't seem to be as much apathy as in the past two or three years," commented Miss Barbara Robertson.

Semester break finds changes

"I think we're leaning back towards the middle of the road. The last three or four years we've gone far out to a normal situation," commented Mr. Bruce Fowler.

This was the first year that any members of the concert orchestra have moved into the symphony at semester break. "The last two years, Mr. Fowler remarked,there was a very slight feeling of 'I don't care, I don't want to be good' attitude."

Mr. Fowler feels, the overall temperament of the school population and their attitudes (we're going to do our own thing) in the last four or five years didn't really spill over into the orchestra until the last two years. However, this year there's a much more disciplined attitude throughout the membership of the orchestra.

The main goals of the orchestra this year were to develop the best orchestra possible and in the process develope mature musicians. March 4, the orchestra visited Clowes Hall. Mr. Fowler commented, "We've received our fourth consecutive invitation. We're the only school to attend Clowes Hall four times in concession."

band department, members flourish

Each year the bands have been able to increase their size without diminishing the quality of their performances. The stage and reserve bands are no exception to this statement, according to Mr. James Chandler.

Everyday after school, the stage band rehearses as opposed to last year when they practiced during homeroom. Five of last years members returned to play in the band.

The reserve band utilized its fourth period class to learn new music and to polish old songs for some of their many performances. Most of these band members looked forward to participating in the marching band.

Mr. Chandler, band director, noted many changes in the band curriculum and in the students attitudes. He feels that the students feelings toward class are better than before, but he said that in "the overall attitudes toward school, I have noticed no change."

Majorettes, marching band entertain

Throughout the football and basketball season, the marching band and the majorettes entertained half-time crowds. The success of both groups was evident by the great number of people who remained to watch the show.

Each of the majorettes attained their position by participating in the spring try-outs. After gaining a spot on the squad, the girls combined wits to produce a half-time show which had variety and originality.

Marching band was one of Warren's three growing bands under the guidance of Mr. Jim Chandler. With each performance, the band attempted to improve its quality.

One act plays replace tests; plays produced by Thespians

Three beginning drama classes presented one-act plays after dividing into groups on January 22-25. English, study hall, and other classes who wanted to see the plays were invited. The plays replaced a written final exam and should give students experience acting in front of an audience, explained Mr. Tom Feit.

The advance drama class presented "Twelve Angry Jurors" on January 24 and 25. The play was about a courtroom trial of a boy charged with murder. The actual play takes place after the trial. "Twelve Angry Jurors" was actually written for television and was just recently turned into play form. A group recently opened an off-Broadway play with it.

The annual musical was on March 22-24. Tryouts were in the third week in January for anyone interested.

After the musical, the One-Act-Play-Festival was presented on May 10. This festival was open to any group in the school to compete with other groups. Awards were presented to the best performances and the best play group went to one of the junior high schools.

Speech team gains confidence

Speech coach, Mrs. Susan Pearson, was justifiably proud of her speech team members because in January they were ranked third in the state. When asked, "Why would someone join the speech team?" Mrs. Pearson remarked, "Speech team members gain many things, foremost among them is confidence. They achieve poise, and overcome inhibitions. They learn how to speak in different situations. They meet new and interesting friends, and they also have fun." Mrs. Pearson feels that these reasons have made speech a fascinating and challenging experience that everyone should try at least once.

Debate meets are strenuous physically and mentally; so when debate coach, Mr. Jay Ward was asked, "Why does anyone want to be a debator?" he replied, "One reason is prestige. With debate known as the 'smart guy's sport,' the debater is looked at with awe after each meet. Another reason is simply that debate experience looks good on a high school record." He feels that everyone is certainly not going to like debate, but those that do receive a once-in-a-lifetime education.

Alterations in media center supply student needs, aids

Three major changes in the educational format created changes in the Media and Audio Visual centers. The Early Bird and Early Release programs decreased the number of students using the center from study halls. This also was the first year for the new mini-courses set up in the sophomore English classes, primarily dealing with societies current problems.

Mindful of the students changing educational and social needs and more concentrated classwork in the Media Center, new materials ordered this year were in the areas of far Eastern Literature. social and teen problems. Head Librarian Mrs. Majorie Martin, observed that in addition to the basic story, students are more often required to know outside ideas related to the story. To help students gain better perspective into literature, more literary criticisms have been added to the Media Center's shelves which totaled 13,346 volumes at the end of December.

Approximately forty student assistants in the Media Center aid the faculty in the areas of charging books, shelving books, charging magazines and changing displays on the new bulletin boards which exhibit articles from Warren's Art Dept.

Clubs aid languages, culture

Not only is communication taught in foreign languages, but culture too. The students learn about how other families live, eat, and speak. French enables students to communicate with French-Canadian people. The French Club helps to promote the language. Any student who has completed one year of French with an A average, is eligible for the French Honor Society, which was formed internationally by French teachers.

Latin is one of the oldest languages we have today. The Latin classes learn history and the language of the Latin speaking people. The Latin Club members attired in Roman dress, assembled and enjoyed Saturnalia, a Roman style banquet. Both clubs held banquets in the spring to honor outstanding students.

Germans held Octoberfest

Spanish classes saw no new changes this year, but the Germans had a new book, according to Mrs. Becky Duncan. Clubs were open to any student enrolled in or completed one year of Spanish or German.

The Germans held their annual Octoberfest, with food and entertainment provided for everyone who attended. The week before Christmas the Germans practiced singing Christmas carols. And the Spanish club prepared for their annual pinata party. The Spanish had one special project this year, the Hispano-American Center, in Indianapolis. The Center provided a Day Care Center, and the Spanish Club made flannel boards for visual aids.

book rental, more relevance for pupil

The English department experimented with a new method of course planning through the use of electives. According to Mr. Myles Eley, department chairman, "this gives the student a greater selection while enabling him to choose his own courses." This program came about over the past summer while the English teachers held a workshop to evaluate a pilot program involving sophomores for experimentation. Courses offered as electives were "Teenager in Trouble," "Newspaper," "Love," "Vision of the Future," and "American Humor." This program was offered for one six weeks out of the semester and became subject to evaluation by the English teachers and students. Planning for further experimentation and department revision will depend on the results of the survey. The goal for the program was summed up by Mrs. Donna Pursell, sophomore English teacher, "To give students and teachers choices of relevant courses without sacrificing learning."

Speakers enlighten classes

"It is most important that the students become familiar with all areas of journalism," according to Mrs. Marilyn Smith, communications teacher. In that respect, the class studied all of the varied prospects in the vast area of communications. To help them attain better understanding of these areas, various guest speakers were invited to relate their jobs to the class. These speakers represented Star-News, WRTV, (channel 6), WIFE, public relations, and an advertising agency. Through this intensive study of the world of journalism, many students became interested to further application of their knowledge. Next year, many hope to participate as a member of the Wigwam, Owl, or WEDM staffs. A group of interested students went downtown to take the FCC (Federal Communications Commission) test which is required for radio staff. In the future, some students are looking forward to a career in the vast fields of communication.

The Owl underwent many changes this year. The rather formal format of the newspaper was revised to a more liberal one with the usage of more pictures being stressed. The publication circulation changed last years weekly schedule to bi-weekly this year.

Members of the Wigwam and Owl staffs are elected every spring to work on the following years publications. During the summer editors and photographers represented Warren while learning at the two week workshop at I.U.

In the fall, the yearbook staff learned the elements of the yearbook before beginning the actual production. The yearbook changes for 1973 have been numerous, including a coach spread and, in general, more intensive coverage of the students of Warren Central.

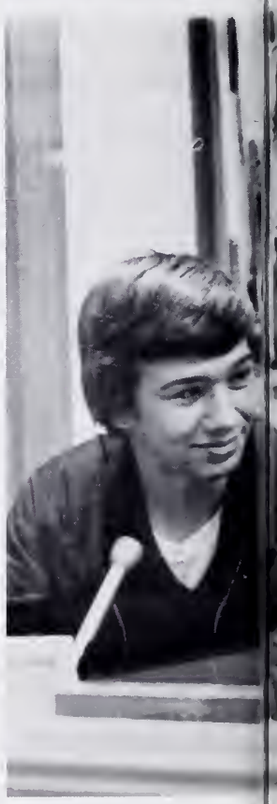
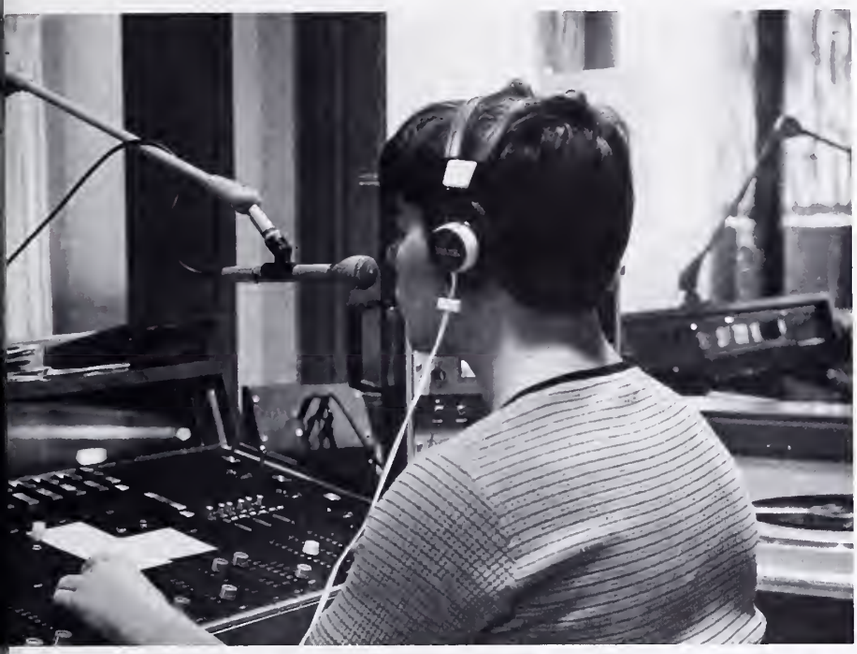
Many programs interest audience;



more students involved on WEDM



WEDM presents the listener with a variety of programs by offering all kinds of music such as big bands, jazz, classical, country, easy listening and top 40. Special interests such as sports and children's broadcasts along with informative programs are presented.

Next year the station will go into instructional broadcasting. This year experiments along this line included a drug study for parents and a series of political interviews with some of the local candidates for the 1972 elections.

Such a variety in programming results because WEDM is an educational station. Federal Communications Commission suggests to stations of this type to do things not found on the commercial stations. WEDM is not exactly after the all-day listener but instead, they are after the listener who listens every now and then out of special interests. Daily broadcasting involves 31 students, many of whom are also active in commercial stations. "WEDM is an excellent example of career education," stated Mrs. Barbara Knauer, station director.

On-the-job training course provides work experiences

Distributive education, a first this year at Warren, is a course directly related to DECA, the Distributive Education Club of America, whose program of leadership, development, social intelligence, civic consciousness, and vocational understanding is designed specifically for students interested in the business world.

In the D.E. program, senior students attend school each morning following the regular academic schedule, while in the afternoon they work under the supervision of a local merchant in an area of interest to them. Juniors enrolled in distributive education which teaches a semester of salesmanship and of merchandizing, can continue the program during their senior year for on-the-job training, or use the class for business course credit needs. The students receive a credit each semester for classroom work, as well as a credit and pay for working at least 15 hours per week.

This year's class size of 20 students is expected to grow next year as more people learn of the program, which was in its novice stage during this year. Mr. Fred Myers, distributive education teacher, feels that many schools are making D.E. a part of their curriculum realizing that many students go directly to work upon graduation, and this course is an opportunity to gain much needed experience for business careers.

Every year more and more Warren students become a part of the work force in the community. These are the results of a Wigwam job survey showing the approximate number of Warren students holding jobs: 28 percent of the sophomores, 45 percent of the juniors, and 50 percent of the seniors were working when the survey was made in mid-January. The most common working time, 15 to 20 hours per week did not interfere with after school activities for the majority of working Warren students.

This was a year for great emphasis on fashion, not that the formality of casualness of personal style was important. With a new freedom prevailing, the emphasis was on dressing to please oneself, not by submitting to the dictates of the fashion world.

A great many events have occurred during the past year: Vietnam cease fire; presidential and state elections; Supreme Court legalization of abortion; state legislation on abortions, the age of majority, and the decriminalization of drug laws; Equal Rights Amendment; Sky-Jacks resulting in airport passenger searches; the last flight in the Apollo space program; the London Flu; and the Olympic tragedy. The incidents affected everyone by shaping thoughts, ideas, and many will always be a part of each person's life.

Deaths of two national leaders, former presidents Harry S. Truman, and Lyndon Baines Johnson, along with the loss of teacher, Mr. Paul Conwell; sophomore, Evanie Garrison; and senior Bob Sedden left persons with unanswered questions in the mystery of life and perhaps somewhat changed by their passing.

COACHES

"BEING A COACH HAS BEEN MY GOAL EVER SINCE I WAS IN COLLEGE," and coach Frank DeBruicker has been at the reserve coaching spot for four years at Warren.

He received his masters and bachelors of science from Purdue and Indiana State. His coaching ability had been picked up by playing basketball at Indiana State.

Coach DeBruicker firmly believes in a young man being a good athlete, but to do this he has to be dedicated and have desire to play that sport.

"I ENJOY WORKING WITH YOUNG MEN AND I HOPE THAT BY WORKING WITH THEM I CAN DETERMINE THEIR TECHNIQUE AS A FOOTBALL PLAYER."

Coach Leo Hine likes all kinds of sports and has enjoyed playing all of them. At Franklin College where he has earned his bachelor of science degree, he played in sports of football, basketball, and track.

This is his eleventh year at Warren as defensive and offensive line coach for the varsity football team.

In his twelve years at Warren Central as varsity baseball coach, Mr. Alan Foreman played baseball all through college which made him enjoy the game so much. He is a graduate of Indiana University where he lettered in baseball and earned his masters degree.

He has found many satisfactions in coaching baseball. One is, he stated, "to watch a young man grow up through high school and to hope that someday he will be playing pro ball."

Coach Dean Carbone followed his father into the field of coaching after playing football at Butler where he graduated with a B.S. and a M.S. degree.

This is his first year at Warren Central as assistant reserve football coach. He works with the offensive and defensive line on the reserve football team.

Satisfaction for him is that you "are molding some young man into something when he plays a sport. Its like showing a young man the way in life."

"SPORTSMANSHIP IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN WINNING IN ATHLETICS," states reserve baseball coach John Orr.

Coach Orr is active in sports because he enjoys them and kids. His philosophy involved enjoying the game and not minding losing. He has never had a losing season as a baseball coach, but he would rather lose using good sportsmanship than win as bad sportsmen.

Mr. Orr got his B.S. at Butler University and he received his M.S. at Indiana State.

COACHES

"I LIKE TO SEE ATHLETES MATURE FROM SOPHOMORE TO SENIORS."

Mr. David Green has been a trainer at Warren Central for four years. He started out as a trainer at Indiana Central College where he received a B.S. and a M.S. He also attended Indiana State College. He enjoys watching the boys participate and rehabilitating injuries. In high school Mr. Green played baseball and ran cross country.

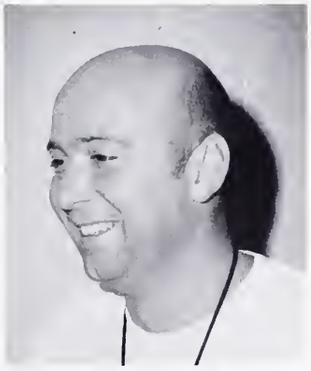
"I GET SATISFACTION OUT OF TAKING A GROUP OF KIDS AND HELPING THEM ACHIEVE A COMMON GOAL. I FEEL FOOTBALL IS RELATED TO LIFE, YOU LEARN TO TAKE VICTORY AND DEFEAT."

Mr. Larry Willen, in his 6th year of coaching at Warren, became a coach out of interest in sports and working with kids. He received a B.S. at Hanover and a M.S. at I.U. He played football, basketball, and ran track at Hanover. Hanover's track team was undefeated in three years of dual meets while Mr. Willen attended.

"WHEN AT A MEET IF, ONE OF MY PLAYERS FAIL I FEEL AS I HAVE FAILED."

In his first year at Warren Coach Richard Gray began coaching because he enjoys teaching a young athlete. He believes that winning and teaching improvement are the two most important goals a coach must have. By improvement coach Gray means physically or mentally.

In molding a team the Butler graduate stated "The coach must get all-around good attitude from the team. The team must have leaders who are willing to sacrifice themselves for the team."



"I WANTED TO BECOME A PHYSICIAN, BUT I DECIDED IT BETTER TO MAKE A MAN STRONG WHEN YOUNG THAN PATCH HIM UP WHEN HE'S OLDER," said gymnastics coach Don Kasson, whose greatest satisfaction is seeing the look of victory in his young men's faces. Lettering in gymnastics and track at Ball State while getting his bachelors degree, he believes, "Being an athlete involves the willingness to pay mentally and physically, while striving to succeed. An athlete must survive injuries, mental setbacks, and losing on his way to become a winner."

"I ENJOY SEEING THE IMPROVEMENT OF EACH INDIVIDUAL AND REACHING THE GOALS SET AT THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR," said Mr. Con Keller in his fourth year of coaching at Warren Central. He has a B.S. and a M.S. from Indiana State College, where he swam the individual medley and as a senior he was a NAIA All-American in swimming.

Coach Keller enjoys being associated with all his athletes and last year he earned the Central Suburbian Athletic Conference "Coach of the Year."

COACHES

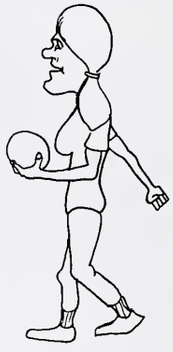
"PUTTING A TEAM TOGETHER IS LIKE FITTING TOGETHER PIECES OF A JIGSAW PUZZLE," Jerry Oliver remarked when speaking of his occupation as Warren Central's basketball coach.

Holding a BS from Ball State and an MS from Butler, Coach Oliver believes that it's experience a coach must have to enable him to know how to fit together the pieces of the puzzle.

Jerry Oliver became a coach because all his life he has been interested and has participated in athletics, including basketball.

"I CHOOSE GIRLS, FOR CERTAIN POSITIONS, THAT WORK WELL IN SPECIFIC PLAYS," remarked Mrs. Rosalind White, girls volleyball coach. In deciding on her team, Mrs. White watches for girls with fundamentals and who achieve certain plays.

Holding a BS in physical education and a MS in secondary education, Mrs. White, also a physical education teacher, enjoys helping the girls have fun and improving themselves physically. She feels that sports are fun and challenging as she, too, has a lot of experience in all sports including volleyball.



"I WANTED TO SEE HOW IT WOULD BE TO RUN A PROGRAM ENCOMPASSING TEN INTERSCHOLASTIC SPORTS. NEEDLESS TO SAY, A TEN SPORT PROGRAM IS VERY TIME CONSUMING," states Mr. Jack Gary, athletic director.

Mr. Gary, a graduate of Ball State University, acquired both his degrees while participating on Ball State's track team.

Now in his tenth year at Warren, Mr. Gary feels fortunate if all the teams finish the season without any injuries, without losing an official's contract, and without running over athletic department's budget.

"MY GREATEST SATISFACTION FROM COACHING IS WATCHING THE GROWTH OF AN ATHLETE. A BOY WITH A SMALL AMOUNT OF ABILITY, THROUGH HIS DESIRE, DETERMINATION, AND DEDICATION, CAN DEVELOP FROM HIS SOPHOMORE YEAR TO A CHAMPION IN HIS SENIOR YEAR," stated Coach Richard Conway.

Coach Conway, in his second year of coaching at Warren, has produced two sectional championships and has placed in the top six in state twice.

Coach Conway received his BS at Purdue University and his MS at Ball State University.

"I COACH BECAUSE I ENJOY THE COMPETITION AND THE CHALLENGE," said Mr. Harry Porter when speaking of coaching reserve baseball. He said that he has always been interested in athletics, so it was only natural for him to take the position. According to Coach Porter, baseball also "gives an opportunity to the young men."

Mr. Porter, a guidance counselor, has coached baseball for three years at Warren Central. He coached other teams prior to Warren and he holds a bachelor and a masters degree.

COACHES

"I LIKE THE, OH, I GUESS YOU'D CALL IT THE COMRADERY OF TEAM SPIRIT." That's one of the satisfactions Mrs. Barbara Huston derives as coach of Warren Central girls swim team. She also likes watching the girls improve as they work throughout the year.

To put the team together, Mrs. Huston has to realize each girl's abilities and spread them evenly throughout the team. Although never really on a team, Mrs. Huston has taught lessons for quite a while and coached the girls swim team for her four years at Warren.

"I DECIDED TO BECOME A COACH SO I COULD HELP YOUNG ATHLETES AS MY HIGH SCHOOL COACH HELPED ME," explained Mr. Jerry Stauffer.

At Earlham College he participated in football and track while earning his bachelors degree. He was assistant track coach at Ohio University where he got his masters degree.

Coach Stauffer believes, "Winning is important, but the main asset of coaching an athlete is to get him to know his own self and limitations." This philosophy was influenced by his high school track and football coach.

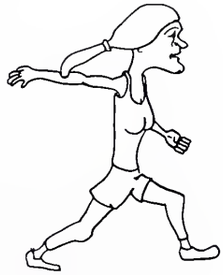
"I FEEL THAT IMPROVEMENT IS THE MAIN GOAL AN ATHLETE MUST STRIVE FOR," remarked Coach Alan Morgan.

Coach Morgan considers the most important point he can make to his team is carrying the values of athletics on into later life.

Alan Morgan has been at Warren for four years. Previously, he has attended Indiana Central, Indiana University, Southern Illinois, and Colorado College.

"THE SATISFACTION I GET COMES FROM JUST WATCHING THE GIRLS DOING SOMETHING THEY ENJOY," said Mrs. Karen Lunsford when speaking of her coaching experience. This is her first year of teaching at Warren Central and her first year as track coach.

Previously, a cheerleading coach, Coach Lunsford was a cheerleader in both high school and college. With a BS in math, she offered to coach in girl's athletics never dreaming it would be track; but nevertheless, she willingly accepted the challenge.



"TO MOLD A GROUP OF YOUNG PLAYERS INTO A WELL DISCIPLINED AND CONDITIONED TEAM WITH HONOR AND RESPECT AND WHO ARE WILLING TO WORK AS A TOTAL UNIT FOR VICTORY IS VERY SATISFYING FOR BOTH THE COACHES AND PLAYERS," remarked Coach Dave Shaw.

Coach Shaws job is to oversee the total football program. It also is his responsibility to coordinate the offensive and defensive approach both on varsity and reserve level.

He attended Purdue University and Indiana Central College for BS degree and his MS at Indiana University.

WC cindermen make history

There he comes running down the lane with determination to reach a goal that he never reached before, can he do it? Yes, because He's a Warren Warrior striding for victory, not just because he's doing it for Warren, but to reach that goal he himself must be determined to win.

That's what makes a runner good for the team and for himself. Last year Warren Central had that determination in their track team to get out there and win. As a result 26 new school records were set. They also won 5 out of 8 invitationals they participated in. The cindermen completed the season with a 10 win and 5 loss record in dual meet competition. To do this, Warren had great depth on the team. Then came sectionals in which the team placed third with two individual runner-ups. In the state, two Warriors participated, they were Dave Lutton and Mike Hannefey in the long jump. Mike had the determination to go out and do his best, which placed him 8th with his best jump ever, 21'5".

Coach Jerry Stauffer remarked, "This is the best track team in the track history of WCHS." One sometimes wonders if it is the coach that makes the team, or if its the determination of the boys. Many believe it is a little of both, but determination in the boys makes the team great.

Batmen win sectional crown

Last year varsity baseball finished the season with its second consecutive sectional championship. Under the coaching of Don Foreman Warren Central's batmen finished the season with a 17 win and 9 loss record. To do this they had to have a balance attack of pitching and hitting.

Rick Burns led the pitching staff along with senior Brad Smith and Gary Mathews, each had an outstanding season. Burns pitched the first no-hitter of the state against Roncalli.

Along with the great pitching, Warren had a balance hitting team with senior Mike Roberts leading the way with a .430 average. Following him were juniors Mike Clancy with an average of .382, and Tom Henrichs with an average of .273. Mike Roberts also tied for All-County honors for the shortstop position. "The 1973 season will be an interesting one," remarked Mr. Foreman.

Warren golfers take County

Coach Bob Masterson 1972 golf team finished the season with their second straight county trophy. Leading the linksmen were senior Mike Landram who tied for top honors in the LaPorte Inv. Also there was great help from junior Doug Pirtle, and sophomores Dave Novotny and Dan Shields. For the second year now Warren has had a well balanced team. Warren Central's golf team placed third in the sectional and qualified for the regionals at Richmond. That day at Richmond was a rainy day and again Warren just missed it to the state finals.

"The team has shown a big improvement over last years team and I feel they gave me everything they had in all of the matches," commented the tennis coach Frank DeBruicker. The team was led by sophomore Steve Ferguson who was a pleasant surprise to Coach DeBruicker while he compiled the highest winning percentage.

The seniors who will be missed next year according to the coach are Paul Stuteville, Paul Drummond, and Greg DeBruicker. These seniors performed well throughout the season, he added.

Sophomore Matt Schrieber and junior Terry Gioe should bolster Ferguson "in making up a good nucleus for next falls tennis team," remarked Coach DeBruicker. The 1972 tennis team placed fourth in the CSAC, sixth in the county and the sectional, and a 4-5 season.

third in state, receive recognition

Cross Country harriers proved to be one of Warren's top sports, by placing third in the state meet. The only other team matching this was the wrestling team last year.

To do this the harriers had to have illustrious balance. Leading the harriers all year was the preeminent Roy Benge. Roy's accomplishments through the year were placing first in County, CSAC, and the Sectional and second in the regional. Roy won every meet but four. At the end of the season Roy proved to be the 6th best runner in the state. There was also the notable Dan Cummins who placed 4th in the county and 41st in the state. Rounding out the team were seniors Steve Patterson, Joe King, Chip Secrest, and Dave Harwell; juniors Jon Lutton and Dale Stetina; and sophomore Wayne Machala.

The reserve team holding a 9-1 record produced top notch sophomores and juniors who could take over the six graduating seniors' positions.

Junior varsity captures title, determination

Coach Richard Conway's second year of coaching at Warren, has produced another strong group for next year's varsity cross country team. Even though he lost six seniors, he has junior varsity men who are able to replace them.

Leading the junior varsity team, sophomore Larry Kjeldsen placed first in the conference while capturing second place at the Southport Invitational, and placing third in the Highland Invitational, and also fourth in the Ben Davis Invitational. Two strong juniors, Steve Lenahan, and Dale Stetina, both placed high in every meet. Stetina moved up to varsity when he started at the back of the pack of over one hundred runners and placed first in the Southport Invitational.

Junior Varsity accomplished much during the season by taking first place in the conference for the second consecutive year. They became Highland champs, and also placed second in the Southport Invitational.

End ranks all-state, all-county

Blasting their first four opponents the warriors soared in the state polls to 13th and led the county A Division by a 71-14 margin over county opponents. Boasting of their All-State receiver Scott Yelvington, honorable mention All-State tackle Gary Bohnert, and versatile All-County defensive back Jeff Hearn, the team captured the CSAC co/Championship the second year.

Warrin' Warriors, coached by Dave Shaw, Larry Willen, and Leo Hine, scalped seven of their ten rivals with impressive victories. Downing city foe Scecina, they continued their initial conquests to massively outscore their competition with a snappy wishbone defense supplemented by a stingy defense. Arlington proved a bit more competitive, however, as the Warriors lost their half time lead but thrilled the home crowd with a gallant recovery to a one point decision 29-28. Underestimated Franklin Central and state power North Central spoiled Warren's outing and all dreams of a County Championship. Slashing back at Lawrence who finished top in the County, Warren clobbered the Bears 39-18. Warren later ended on a high note by sliding past Greenfield in a muddy contest.

The new honorable mention All-County list included M. Mull, D. Pirtle, S. Bunner, R. Rusterholz, and J. Beranek. Offensively the line composed of J. Beranek, K. Bridgewater, S. Burlington, R. Hensley, B. Kreiger, G. Bohnert, J. Mendenhall, and S. Yelvington proved invaluable in the total attack. Other standouts were J. Meyer, D. Walker, B. Reynolds, J. Harmas, and J. Jackson. K. Shepherd, R. Kruge, M. Wickliff, G. Wessling, M. Hannefey, J. Jefferson were also regulars who aided in the total team effort, a commendable 7-3 campaign.

Team work, effort provides good season for players

Coach Jerry Stauffer and Dean Carbone have two main goals as they look forward to a football season. They are "to make the players realize how important hard work is," and "to mold the two junior highs into a solid football team." Accomplishing these goals has brought only three losses in the last three years to the reserve football teams.

This year's season ended with a 5-2-2 record, but more important, a lot of learning. It began with two overwhelming victories and much desire for an undefeated season. A mid-season slump began with the home opener against Arlington. The final play of that game proved this team's eagerness to win and willingness to never give up. Warren reached its low point of the season against fired-up North Central. The fine character of the Warriors was brought out in the next game as they knocked off undefeated Lawrence.

If there was one characteristic about these Warriors which stood out to the coaches it was the players holding of enthusiasm within themselves. To a coach this might mean no enthusiasm at all. But as Coach Stauffer noticed, "They always seemed to rise to the occasion, saving their enthusiasm for the game."

The most important thing to remember from the season in the coach's eyes are that "hard work pays off" and "each game is different so learn from every one."

Varsity netters find answers to finish strong

Warren basketball Coach Jerry Oliver feels that success in winning is the major goal when looking at an upcoming season. He continued stating, "Along with winning comes leadership, enthusiasm and other qualities which make up a good season.

Coach Oliver was pleased with the season even though it was a losing 4-15 record. He explained "Losing is something every player and coach must face. When you're losing the enthusiasm is low and the dedication isn't there." This year's team put it all together at the right time when the sectionals came around by blasting their first opponent Beech Grove by 60-35. They revenged an early loss. In their second game they lost a real nail-biter to Attucks, who were eventually sectional champs over host Southport.

Mr. Oliver believes in one proverb very much "success breeds success." He is hopeful that Warrens success in the sectionals this year will breed success for all of next season.

Four reserves reach varsity in mid-season

Much of Warren's varsity success depends upon Mr. Frank DeBruicker's development of sophomores and juniors in basketball skills as proved by the sectional win and loss.

During midseason his conditioning paid off as he sent four sophomores up to the varsity squad for the rest of the season. They were sectional starters Greg Ransom, Matt Schrieber, and Harry Hanna who showed they could play varsity ball. Another standout, Mitch Smock, made all-tourney with his outstanding play in the sectionals. Other starting players were Randy Law, Ronny Collier, Rick Mathews, Dennis Sweat, and Neil Miggenburg.

This year's team finished with a 6-12 record after supplying many thrills on the basketball court.

Cheerleaders possess spirit to lift school

A little imagination, a spark of courage, and we have the varsity and reserve cheerleaders at Warren Central. This year the cheerleaders produced many first place ribbons, trophies, and plaques, and a spirit stick in stiff competition around the Midwest cheerleading camps. The varsity squad worked its way up to the top ten squads in the nation.

As cheerleaders the girls feel they were a part of Warren Central. Every Friday the girls made signs to display around the school and for the boys to wear, and decorated the boys lockers. All day they go around trying to get the boys up for the game and to raise school spirit even when the students and team are down.

Wrestlers capture first Regional in school's history, fifth in state

One of the most successful athletics team in Warren Central's history was coach Alan Morgan's wrestlers and there are some good reasons for it. They were victorious in the Carmel and Warren Invitationals. They also captured the Conference Title, Marion County title, and the sectional championship. Their best was the nail-biter at the Arlington Regional championship where they captured first.

In the County the Warriors captured first in four weight classes, Mike Green in the 119 class, Dave Hair 132, Robin Rusterholz, #138, and Gary Bohnert in the 185 weight class. Also Rusterholz, Bohnert, and Kreiger finished in the top three in their weight classes at the state meet at Southport.

The regional wrestling victory was the first regional victory in any sport for the school. In state competition the matmen placed fifth.

Gymnasts work hard, show some talent in close defeats

Gymnasts finished this years campaign with a 6-7 record, which included a big win over Shelbyville High School. The record is misleading because the Warriors were even in talent compared to last years team and three defeats were only by a few points. Outstanding Warrior gymnast John Underwood, took the all-around title and placed first on the horizontal bars in the CSAC and also qualified for the state meet in three events. Other standouts included Jack Houchins, trampoline; Rick Nuss, still rings; and Dan Bailey, parallel bars. Coach Don Kasson commented, "that the team did very well this year considering the short time they were exposed to gymnastics."

Swimmers piled up their best season yet with a 14-2 record in dual meet competition. One of the biggest victories was over Bloomington South who had won 82 straight meets, and had suffered their first defeat in five years.

The Warriors took the CSAC title and finished third in the county and ended up the seventh best team in the state meet at Ball State. Sophomore Mike Kelly and senior Tom Henricks led the team with county titles in breaststroke and diving respectively. Tom Cunningham took first in the 50-yard freestyle in the sectionals and so did Mike Kelly in the 100-yard breaststroke. Other seniors who will be missed by the team are Steve Walls, Keith Borgman, and Bruce Oretel.

FCA, Pep Club, Lettermen unite

Fellowship of Christan Athletes' purpose is to find fellowship together for individual growth in the Christian life, to save Christ, and to confront athletes with the challenge of following Jesus Christ.

Some FCA activities include a Christmas project to support families with food, and a tooth brush sale to buy warm-up jackets for athletes.

Pep Club supports Warren's athletes, win or lose. Also it could create an atmosphere of unity while showing appreciation to the athletes for their time.

Club activities included a car wash, candy sales, and a magazine sale to benefit their organization.

The Lettermen's Club is sponsored by Mr. Larry Willen. The officers are President Mike Hannefey, Vice President Kai Sheperd, and Treasurer Jeff Hearn. The organization consists of Warren Central students who have earned their Warren letters participating in athletes.

Mat maids, gym maids help during wrestling, gym meets

Gym Maids in their first year, serve as enthusiasm leaders at gymnastics meets. Last year they came as loyal fans to the meets to help judges and to do what ever they could. This year they were rewarded by being sponsored as gym maids. They sold candy to get their own uniforms. They assist at meets by keeping and averaging scores, helping judges and announcing results at the meets.

In their third year as matmaids, they served as cheerleaders at the wrestling meets. They assisted at the meets by keeping score along with adding enthusiasm which helps the wrestlers spirit. The girls are choosen by Mr. Orr.

Girls' swim team breaks records;

Female swimmers combined strength, skill, and talent for an outstanding season by breaking many school records. The dynamic foursome of Sally Steimel, Ann Huston, Mary Gawrys, and Cindy Hensley joined forces to set a new record of 2:13.3 seconds in the 200-yard medley relay. Sophomore surprise Eileen Gawrys completed the 50-yard breast stroke in 37.3 seconds while senior Melanie Hillman finished the 200-yard free style in 2:36.3 seconds.

The girls' track organization added spirit and excitement to every track meet. Their many duties included assisting in measuring jumps, placing and removing hurdles, and timing runners. GTO also kept records, announced winners, and awarded ribbons.

An important part of every swimming meet are the Good Time Girls. These girls are responsible for working the clocks, operating the fall start rope, and timing swimmers.

Girls' sports teams participate first

Determination, ability, and desire played key roles in girls' sports in addition to basketball and volleyball coaches emphasising team work for a winning season.

The girls' basketball team earned a successful season. From the beginning the team looked strong as they finished with a record of 3-4. "Next year should be even better," remarked Coach Jean Reed, "because of all the sophomore possibilities."

This year's volleyball team had a disappointing season with a record of 1-6. However, the girls played two rounds in the district meet defeating Lawrence and later suffered defeat by Arlington.

Girls' track members were chosen in March after months of rigorous training after school. Coach Karen Lunsford remarked that she was surprised by all the girls who participated, between 25 and 30.

1973 . . . Our Senior class thought it would never come. Finally, it's time to graduate . . . Most of us came to Warren from either Woodview or Creston Jr. High School . . . The sophomore year was a scary one; after all, we were "underclassmen." It was a big jump from junior high. We were presented with subjects such as public speaking, chemistry, and geometry . . . Of course, no one could forget drivers' ed. and their first license . . . We had to get used to calling a library the "media center . . . " The first real proof we had of belonging to Warren Central was our class rings. They were a big thing at first and everyone was real proud to have one. After a while, the ring became just a memory . . . Pep Club was a big deal that year and they backed our reserve undefeated football team and all the other sports we participated in . . . Of course, the memorable event of the year was the "sit in" in front of Mr. Piety's office. It concerned a mix-up about getting out of school for winning the county basketball tourney. This event even made the papers! Gradually, to the students disappointment, the excitement died, and school resumed as usual . . . This was the first year for G.T.O.'s too. The cheerleading squad expanded to Mat Maids for the wrestlers . . . The plays presented our sophomore year were "Bye Bye Birdie" and "Up the Down Staircase . . . " As the year came to a close, we took part in a convocation for our first high school principal, Obert Piety. He left that year, and all the kids gave him a boat . . .

The day the class of 1971 got out of school was different. We had never experienced the Seniors' last day and we were all wishing we could be out and yet glad it wasn't time to go for awhile.

Our Junior year was different in a lot of ways. Of course we had matured one year, and we now had a class of sophomores to pick on. This made us feel a lot better . . . We had the PSAT and SAT tests which geared our thinking towards college . . . Sports grew that year and so did our guys. In football, we were 4-6 and the Yelvington-Pirtle combination became very well known. In basketball, our reserve team took county. In wrestling we observed Andy Watt Day. He took first in state and Robin Rusterholz was runner-up in the state contest. Swimming "buoys" also excelled, they placed 13th in state. Tom Henrichs placed fifth in diving. All the Warrior teams proved themselves worthy of admiration . . . After the games, the D.Q. and Pizza Inn were the main "hang outs . . . " Towards the end of last year, many students developed a bad case of trackitis. Oh the excuses that came up . . . We had our first Junior Prom at the Holiday Inn. Pam McCall and Mike Hannefey reigned over the dance . . . Not to be forgotten was the Hawaiian Lunch Program that took place for a week in our own Warren cafeteria. Will we ever forget those exotic dishes? Plays of that year included "Carousel" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

All these events seem so recent. Yet here it is—our Senior year. This year observed many changes . . . good and bad . . . First, early release and January graduation were made possible for the students . . . Some senior classes were: exploratory teaching with Mrs. Means, sociology with "Rocky" Albano, psychology with Mrs. Adamovich or Mr. Foreman, government, senior English, and family living . . . The fall activities included a bonfire, the 50's dance with the Ooze, and a rainy, muddy, homecoming. Julie Warren was our queen . . . Three of our senior guys made All-County football this year; namely, Scott Yelvington, Jeff Hearn, and Gary Bohnert. Scott also made All-State with Jeff and Gary making honorable mention. All of our sports improved. In cross-country, wrestling, gymnastics, and swimming, we brought home many new titles . . . In December and January we ordered cards and announcements, and had cap and gown measurements . . . Finals were the end of school for some seniors and the end of a semester for others . . . There were voters in our class for the first time when Richard Nixon was re-elected President . . . Student Council became more active this year. The Breakfast Program came from the Council and turned out very well . . . Drugs became more noticeable as far as usage and lockers began to be checked . . .

Homecoming floats and various dances dissolved . . . Club sizes decreased and the enthusiasm for sports in general . . . This stemmed from the changing views of we, the youth of 1973. Students became more individualistic. Concern grew for the problems outside our sheltered lives in school. We became aware of war, crime, poverty, and drugs. Yes, we've changed . . . Instead of Jeff Doty on announcements, we were informed by Terry Neal . . . Instead of skirts at Homecoming, the dress became more natural . . . Smock tops this year were sometimes filled, instead of just being the style . . . Have the changes been good or bad? This depends on the individual . . . The senior class contains many different individuals. Each one is looking for answers . . . We all, however, have one thing in common. Graduation is the door to a new life ahead of us. Where we go is up to us . . . We've changed during our life at Warren. And we will go on changing. Our knowledge has broadened in some area which will prove useful in building up the individual who will try to find his place in society . . . Many people at Warren have helped us gain this knowledge. Now it is up to us to use it. Cat Stevens sums it up very well . . .

"There's so much left to know, and I'm on the road to find out, ooh."

Silent sunlight, welcome in
There is work I must now begin.
All my dreams have blown away
And the children wait to play
They'll soon remember things to do
When the heart is young
And the night is done
And the sky is blue
Morning songbird, sing away
Lend a tune to another day
Bring your wings and choose a roof
Sing a song of love and truth
We'll soom remember if you do
When all things were tall
And our friends were small
And the world was new
Sleepy horses, heave away
Put your backs to the golden hay
Don't ever look behind at the work you've done
For your work has just begun
There'll be the evening in the end
But till that time arrives
You can rest your eyes
And begin again.

"Silent Sunlight" by Cat Stevens

Our lives sometimes contrast from one day to the next. We can be grubby or dressy and rowdy or mannerly. One thing that doesn't change as often is the individual self. Changes in this respect come slowly and with the passing of time.

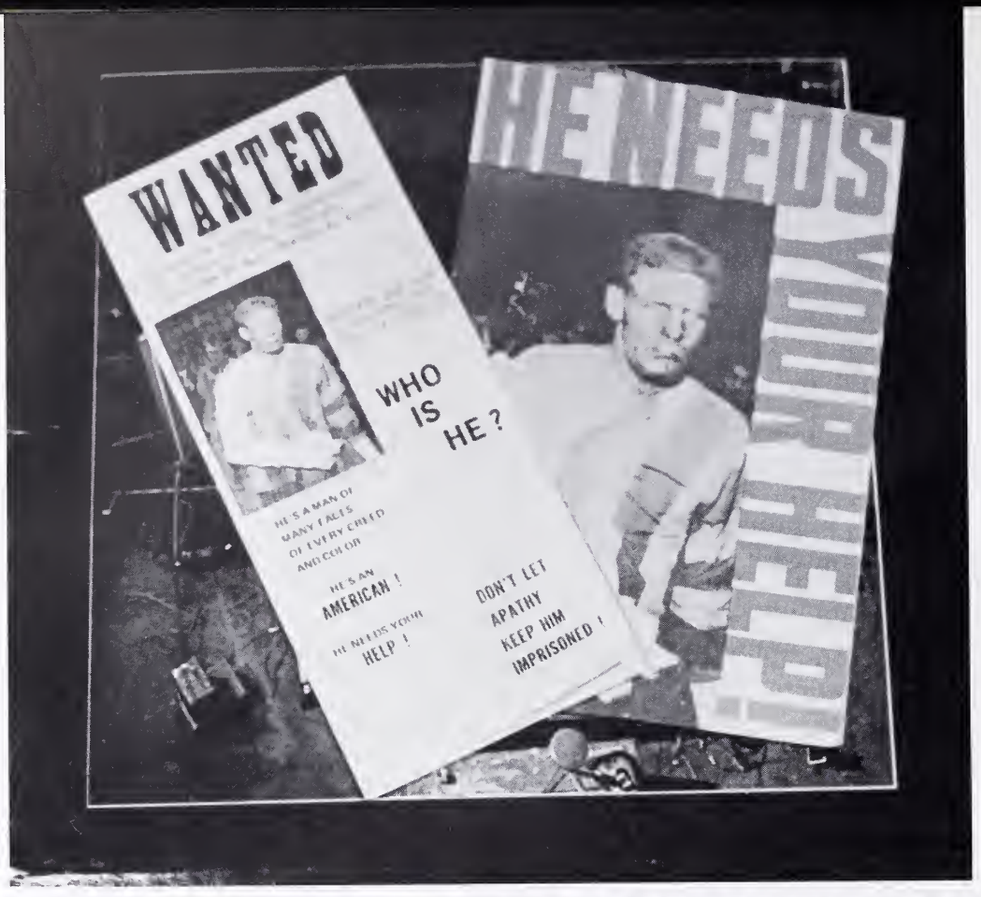
Indianapolis

The All-American city observed many new changes in the 1972-73 year. The League of Cities met here with Mayor Richard Lugar giving the key note address. Many new sites were constructed. The Convention Center, one new site, held concerts with famous groups and singers ranging from Sonny and Cher to Alice Cooper. New franchises developed in our area such as Just-Rite Hamburgers, Fish Furniture, Laughners, and Levitt's Furniture. Castleton Square, nearing completion, finally opened and became a place to buy as well as a place of pleasure.

Along with the new sites, the year attracted many people to the old sites. For example, Monument Circle at Christmas time is a legend in itself to Hoosiers. The large "Christmas tree" fills both young and old eyes with amazement and happiness. The Speedway is another old site which seems to be impossible to avoid during the month of May. A sports arena and a larger shopping center, Washington Square, became more than ideas for the near future. Happenings during the year included the Indianapolis teachers strike, the bussing issue with Judge Dillon, and the Model Cities project for redevelopment of downtown areas. Indianapolis, the All-American city, reflects the changing times.



Posters promote P.O.W. bracelets which are popular among Warren students. The bracelets serve as daily reminders of the Vietnam War and symbolize the growing concern for our prisoners. Teenagers wear the bracelets to silently protest the war and they pledge themselves to wear the bracelets until the prisoners are free.

Sweetheart rings replace the exchanging of class rings between boyfriends and girlfriends. Some of the girls say they like sweetheart rings to show them off. Some of the guys say they just can't think of anything else to get their girlfriends for Christmas.

Crowded halls and rushing students play an important role in every sophomore's career at Warren Central. The first couple days are hectic until the sophomore establishes his own pattern that he will use all year.

To see the sun shine over head,
The trees bend gently in the wind,
The flowers that rise into the world,
The clouds' clear patterns in the sky;

To hear birds sing in morning hours,
The crunch of snow beneath warm feet,
The sparkling waves that lap the sand,
The echoes ring through canyon walls;

To smell the air before a rain,
The earth that's ready for new life,
The wind that rustles through the fields,
The blooms that open for their light;

To touch a kitten's warm soft fur,
The rough bark of a rigid tree,
The sharpness of cold winter snow,
The tender greening grass of spring;

Experience all these wondrous things!
—To see, to hear, to smell, to touch.
For to do all this—and even more,
Is simply to believe.

Cecily Axsom

Life is like an apple.
You begin shiny and whole—
A solid form.
Untouched and beautiful.
That is the beginning of life.
You begin as a seed.
Grew to an apple,
Were picked from God's tree.
You lived.
Then little by little you were slowly eaten away by Life.
Bite by bite
You aged.
Your skin was peeled
Then you slowly turned
Brown and wilted
All that is left is a core
Your core is left to rot and eventually withers away and dies.

Sometimes I find I'm followed
By forgotten dreams of long ago
That I'd cut and felled in the cold
For I found they were impossible
It used to make me troubled.
Until I had gotten to know
Quiet hallucinating shadows.

Muscles acting without control, flail about,
The faint vision of a new born child
beholds surroundings.
Infantile intuition perceives the environment, acting as a sixth sense.
The jabberings of babies express simple thoughts.
Is infancy so much different from senility?

Marci Reddick

Growing old is a habit,
that the young desire,
And the old remember.

Jeff Wilch

I am an old blind man;
Unable to see the colors in your shapely
face,
Or the sun glimmering on your long hair.

I am an old crippled man;
Unable to walk with the rhythm of your slender body,
Or to jump with you from star to star.

I am an old deaf man;
Unable to hear the soft words of your
clear voice,
Or to listen to the serenity of your breathing.

I am an old mute man;
Unable to speak the words you have taught me,
Or remark of the beauty within your soul.

I am old, blind, crippled, deaf, and mute—
Still, I can contemplate,
And through my mind,
I have grown to love you.

A little boy ran desperately from his mother's bed to an old pot belly stove trying to warm a pillow to hold against her breast because she was cold. He didn't quite understand why, but he did know that his loving mother was going to leave him forever. With tears streaming down his face, he wished that in some small way he could relieve her growing agony. She looked so pale laying there. "Oh, God, please help my mommy," he pleaded fervently. But God in his divine wisdom took his mother that night, relieving her of her anguish, she died.

Today fifty-two years later, that frightened boy has grown up to be my father. As he tells me how his mother died, a look of pain crosses his face as he remembers . . . Then he did something that he in his strength was embarrassed to do, and I in my weakness was too confused to witness; out from under his tight closed eyelid, a single tear slipped down his cheek.

Sandy Hausz

The line leads from the floor,
to the corner
up the wall and
encloses the ceiling.
I am trapped by
straight lines.
The only way that I am able to escape
is by closing my eyes
and walking into the darkness.
With open eyes I cannot see how far I must walk to escape.
With closed eyes I cannot tell how far I have already walked.
I may walk for miles in darkness and when I reach the light
will I still be trapped by lines?
Or must I stay trapped by night?

Nothing will make the ticking stop,
to preserve precious moments.
Without skipping a beat,
It continues.
The only means of arrest
is memory.
There in the mind,
anything can remain suspended
It won't hear the chimes of time.

Marci Reddick

My life and my soul
Are guided by true friends light.

When this light diminishes,
I will be alone and frightened.

For I have but one true friend, my innerself.

I have achieved peace of mind,
I am free.

My heart is filled with contentment,
I am free.

My soul is enriched with meaning,
I am free.

Why them, am I lonely?

well, to be quite frank, i never enjoyed high school. the subjects taken will usually never be used again. yet in the back of our parents' mind a reasoning exists. i did learn something. i learned that life is pretty rotten but it is all we have. so we can always flush or swim. —

Just as I was drowning in my private sea of sorrow,
You reached out your hand to me like a life jacket.

As I went down a second time, you smiled
And I returned to the surface of my sea.

I went down the third and last time
And just as I went under I heard you say,
"I need you."

I splashed and kicked for I needed my life.
I grasped your hand
I returned your smile
I heard your word
And I was saved.

Life is hidden
In the funniest places—
under the heart,
embedded in the mind,
but yet
I can find—
its presence.
Spilling over in actions.

One day a man came by my way.
He looked as if he had something to say.

But I was too busy or either too blind,
To listen to this man with a troubled mind.

Now he is gone and I will never know
What it was he wanted to say.

My soul has not rested since
That very day.

Roberta S. Clark

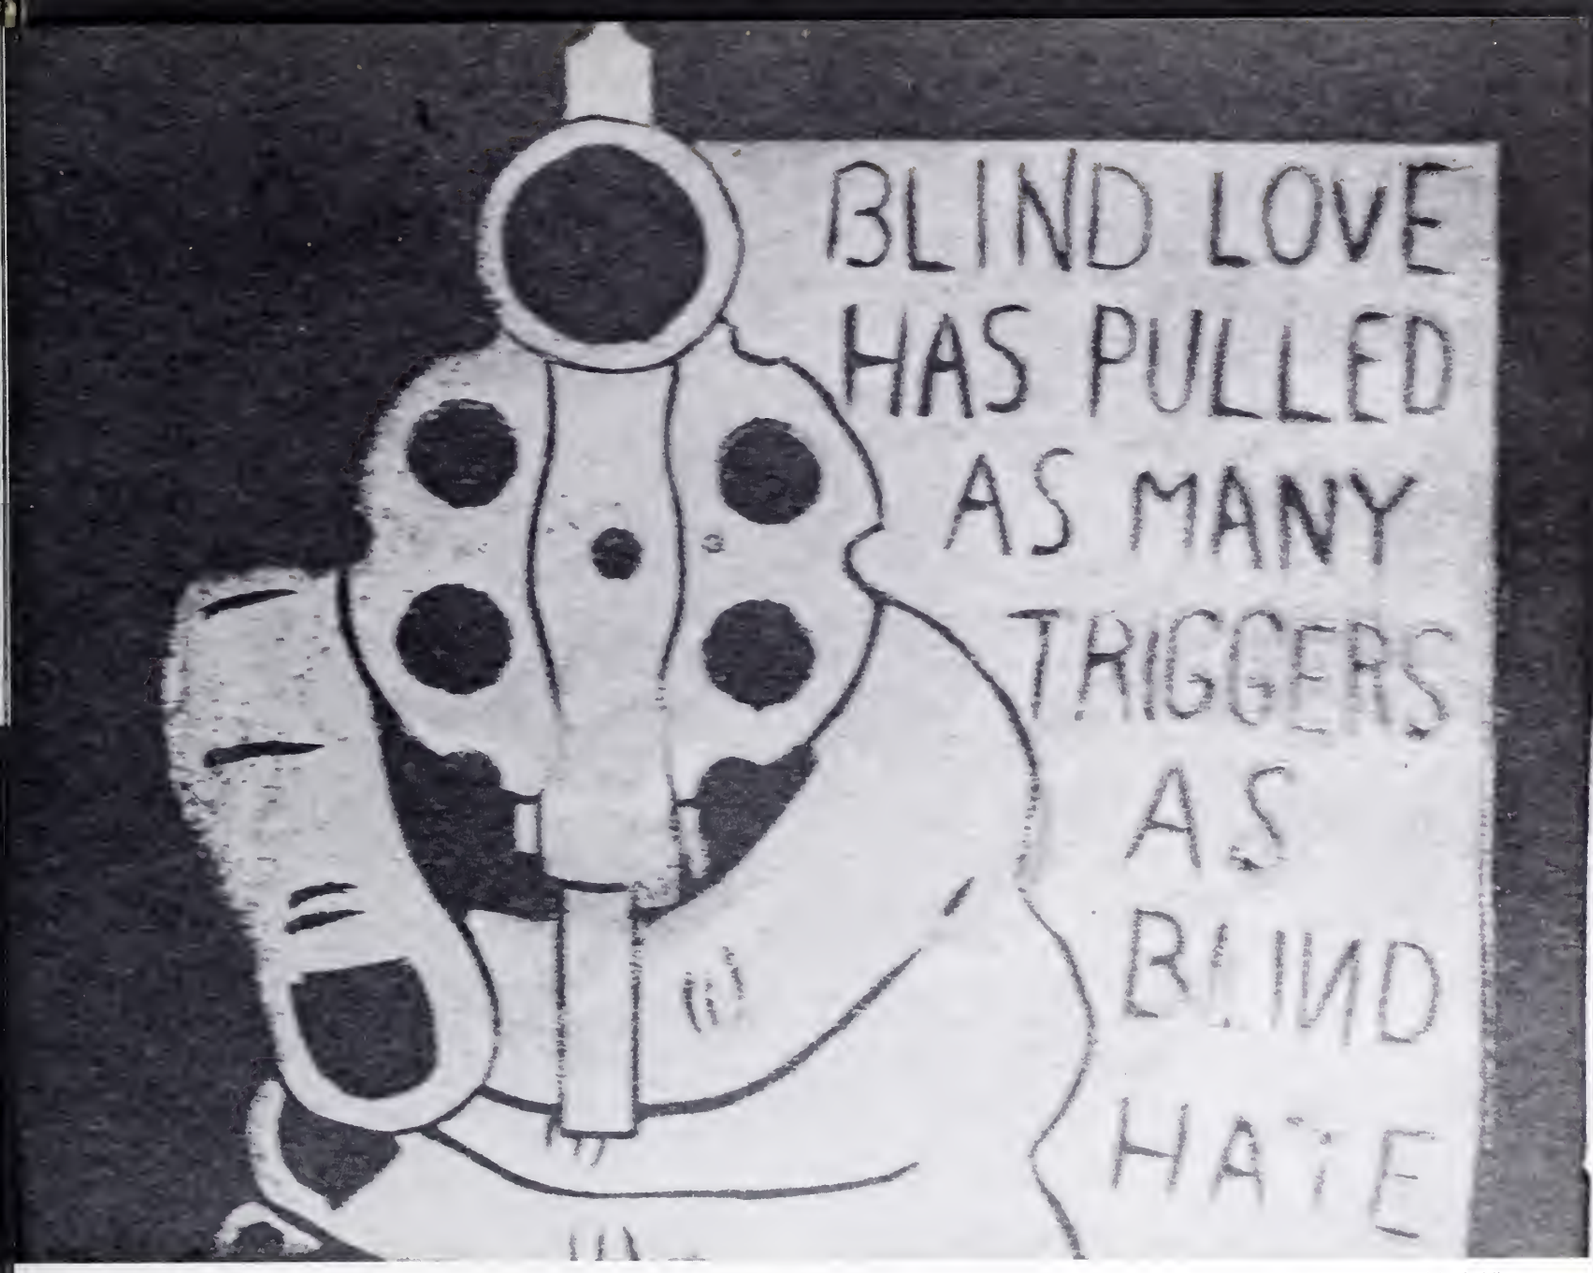
From over a hundred art and literary contributions made by students, all were considered, but unfortunately, not enough space was available.

During the time it takes,
For a child to cry, for the tide to come in,
Or the seconds to pass on a broken watch,
We have passed time in a race but never won.
For the time it takes a man to admit he is wrong,
Or a child to grow up, or the water to become polluted,
We only realize one thing . . . we were too late . . .

Jeff Wilch.



Mark Hires

Knock a man down,
And then turn around,
And don't let him see your face.
Perogative, freedom,
Kill him, mislead him,
But don't claim you conscience disgrace.

Speak out with vigor,
Your tongue on the trigger,
But don't use your personal voice.
Young blood is flowing,
Democracy's growing,
But still you're deprived of your choice.

It's the natural way,
That the voice of today,
So relentlessly sounds the opinion.
So listen we must,
And retain hope and trust,
Or be robbed of our minds own dominion.

Yearbook members always hope to create an annual which will help students recall "the best years of their life" and at the same time improve upon last year's edition. This year we tried to capture some of the feelings and opinions present at Warren along with the regular classroom subjects. Teachers and students seemed to experience a renewed interest in school activities. With early release and January graduation, a lot of the boredom and tension among students was released.

We owe our thanks to many people for helping us finish the yearbook, but most of all, our gratitude goes to Mrs. Marilyn Smith, our new advisor. She encouraged staff members and livened the book with her fresh ideas. Mr. Dick Kennard, Newsfoto yearbook representative, gave us invaluable help throughout the year. Mr. Max Galloway, senior class photographer, supplied us with some class pictures when our student photographers were unable to get a decent picture, and athletic team pictures. The high quality underclass pictures were taken by Indiana School of Pictures and Mr. Frank Fisse of Indianapolis Star supplied us with the much-needed varsity football pictures. Our thanks also go to the many fine patrons of Warren who advertised in the yearbook.

Our seventh period class saw many changes in the staff and yearbook policies as the year progressed. We learned about the thousand tedious jobs which accompany the book and had to be done. We managed to overcome short tempers, photographers, and constant copy revision although we did not have trouble meeting deadlines. Often the school day lengthened as staff members stayed after school to meet deadlines.

We especially want to thank our journalism helpers, student contributors, and everyone at Warren who helped make the 1973 WIGWAM possible.

Lisa Majerick

In our effort to produce the 1973 WIGWAM as a distinguished annual publication, the photography staff has contributed numerous hours of work both after school and on weekends. We especially hope that you enjoy the variety and quality we strived to exhibit in our work. As a member of the graduating class, I endeavored to photograph this year in a manner that would not only enhance the yearbook but also accentuate the memories in the years ahead for the seniors of 1973.
